Deadlock Caused by Believers May Mean Japan to Retire From League

GENEVA, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Japan refused before the League of Nations council today to relinquish her position in Manchuria, and China retorted by threatening to extend the Chinese boycott against Japanese goods.

The position of the two nations was outlined in speeches by Yusuke Matsukawa for Japan and Dr. Wellington Koo for China.

Their deadlock created a grave crisis for the League, with the withdrawal of Japan from membership threatened.

Citing the American, British and French interpretations of the Kellogg pact to prove that Japan was not guilty of treaty violation in Manchuria, Japanese Delegate Yu-suke Matsukawa told the council today that Japan cannot consider any substitute for the present government in the Manchurian state of Manchukuo.

Matsukawa's voice rose nearly to a shout when he read the United States senate's ratification of the Kellogg pact recognizing that the right of self protection may be extended beyond the orders of a country.

States Speak

The Japanese delegate spoke for 50 minutes. Dr. Wellington Koo, chief Chinese delegate, looked at the ceiling, as though day dreaming.

Matsukawa said the mere consideration of a solution other than the maintenance of the Manchukuo government "might possibly lay the whole far eastern question open to serious disorders, we can enter no such consideration."

Matsukawa denied Manchukuo owned its existence to Japanese initiative. "Such a suggestion flatters Japan, giving us credit for ability in the art of persuasion that we do not possess," he said.

The Japanese delegate claimed Japan acted in self defense in Manchuria and referred to the prece-

HERIOT NARROWLY ESCAPES BOMBING

PARIS, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Breton separatists and autonomists bombed the railway near Nantes over which Premier Edouard Herriot was traveling "as a demonstration of the strength of their movement" and not as an attempt against Herriot, the ministry of interior announced today.

It was believed the Breton sect "Gwen Ha Du," meaning black and white and similar to the Irish Black and Tan, would be dissolved. The sect encourages Bretons to speak the native Gallic language and scorn everything French.

The bombers sent letters throughout Brittany Saturday announcing their plans to impress the chief of the French government with their strength, the ministry of interior said.

STRANGE CULT VITAL PERIOD OFFERS HUMAN IN POLITICS OF LIFE AT ALTAR WORLD OPENED

Negro Leader Confesses He Killed Man and Laid Body on Altar

BY UNITED PRESS

THE MOST VITAL period in world politics in years opened today. Attention was divided among the following:

1.—The meeting of the League council at Geneva, with the fate of the league apparently in the balance over the hopeless deadlock between Japan and China over Manchuria. Further warfare in the Orient was openly threatened.

2.—The conference at Washington tomorrow between President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt on war debts, the outcome of which is awaited by Europe with deep anxiety.

3.—The German cabinet crisis, with the possibility of Adolf Hitler's fascists coming into power.

The fate of the disarmament conference also was uncertain. If the league fails to enforce its treaty obligations on Japan, Germany and the smaller nations may declare all acts valueless.

Regarding debts, European politicians kept insisting the payment by Europe of the $125,000,000 due Washington on Dec. 15 would have disastrous effects on world finance and trade.

With Britain paying the largest installment of $95,500,000, the MacDonald government was confronted by a difficult problem. The payment had not been budgeted for and the presentation of a supplementary budget appeared necessary. The government had to consider reduction of the pay of civil servants and the army and navy, which would be hazardous.

Unless the money is found, however, a severe slump of the pound sterling appeared likely.

Czechoslovakia joined England, France and smaller nations today in asking Washington for debt relief.

DR. BRIGGS ATTACKS PRESS IN ADDRESS

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 21.—(UP)—

Blaming the "metropolitan press" for the changed attitude of the public on prohibition, Dr. Arthur Briggs, president of the Anti-Saloon league of California, declared "the war is on to prevent the return of liquor traffic" in an address at Bethany Presbyterian church here last night.

Dr. Briggs cited the fact that since the 18th amendment was passed 12 years ago, drinking has decreased by 65 per cent.

"Prohibition has been a success," he declared. "But for 12 years Hearst has told his readers it is a colossal failure. And not only Hearst, but most of the other metropolitan papers have day after day pounded into the minds of their readers that prohibition cannot be enforced. All of this has been lying, wet propaganda."

Dear Europe: Your applications of poverty to the U.S. government for extension on your notes is respectfully denied as the taxpayers at home whom we borrowed the money from are demanding it. NAZI LEADER SEEKING TO GET SUPPORT

Given Six Hours by Hindenburg to Gain Reichstag Majority Backing COMMUNIQUE ISSUED

President and Hitler Confer for Second Time on Forming of Cabinet

BERLIN, Nov. 21.—(UP)—President Von Hindenburg gave Adolf Hitler, Nazi leader, six hours today in which to obtain a reichstag majority which would support a cabinet headed by a member of Hitler's party, presumably Hitler himself.

The president and the Nazi leader, conferred for the second time during the current negotiations to form a new government.

Police reserves were called out to clear a way for Hitler's automobile to pass over the 200-yard route from the Kaiserhof hotel to the presidential palace. Thousands of Nazi jammed the streets, shouting "Hail Hitler" and singing the Nazi battle song.

Von Hindenburg is seeking a successor to Chancellor Franz Von Papen, who resigned last week because he lacked support for a coalition regime. It was understood that if Hitler became chancellor, it would be on condition that he follow Von Papen's policies and leave ultimate selection of the new cabinet to Von Hindenburg.

Politicians noted that a carefully worded official communiqué made it plain that the president had not yet commissioned Hitler to form a cabinet, but had merely requested an outline of Hitler's chances of obtaining a parliamentary majority.

The communiqué said:

"After Herr Hitler told the president decisively that his party would be able to cooperate only in a cabinet led by him personally President Von Hindenburg asked Herr Hitler to inform him by 5 p.m. whether and under what conditions such a cabinet with a majority in the reichstag, Herr Hitler promised this afternoon."

At 8 p.m. Hitler sent a letter to Von Hindenburg, submitting several questions which he asked the president to answer tomorrow if possible.

The fate of the disarmament conference also was uncertain. If the league fails to enforce its treaty obligations on Japan, Germany and the smaller nations may declare all acts valueless.

"Hello, Gov. Roosevelt, nice of you to come, knowing your distaste for Washington.

Hello, Mr. President, nice of you to make it possible for me to get to Washington, but let's get right to business. Are those foreigners going to pay?

Mr. Hoover: "Not unless they have to."

Mr. Roosevelt: "What were your campaign promises?"

Mr. Hoover: "No postponements and no cancellations."

Mr. Roosevelt: "Mine, too; what do you say just for a novelty that both parties keep their campaign promises?"

Mr. Hoover: "That's O.K. with me. Stimson, bring us a cable blank."

Student Fight After Game May Break Relations

TEAR GAS AND HOSE USED TO QUELL RIOTERS

Athletic relations between Santa Ana and Fullerton high schools, may be broken, as result of a free for all fight and near-riot which took place on Poly field Saturday afternoon, following Santa Ana's victory over the Fullerton eleven, 14 to 6, according to reports current.

Although no official information was forthcoming from school authorities regarding the possible breaking of relations, it is understood there is a feeling that Fullerton students went "too far" in their demonstration after the game.

From a sportsmanship standpoint the winning team has charge of the field after the game, it was pointed out. Under that procedure, Fullerton, who lost, should have left the field in an orderly manner. Instead students of the Fullerton High school surged out on the field, determined to take away the goal posts. They were met with opposition from Santa Ana students and a number of fist fights took place.

Use Gas Bombs

Police, on duty at the field had a hard time quieting the students and several tear gas bombs were fired around the goal posts in order to break up the milling students. Several students were slightly affected by the gas.

Police Commissioner E. G. Warner, who went down on the field to assist the police in dispersing the students, was man-handled several times and his hat was knocked off on one occasion.

Today he stated that trouble was averted by the way the police handled the crowds, and had dismissed the incident. He declared that there were no arrests made or would there be any arrests as a result of the melee. "Just too much school spirit" is the way he explained the skirmish.

Part of the fence on the east side of the field was torn down and Fullerton students did manage to cart away one of the goal posts.

Good work in breaking up the scrap was done by a high school teacher, who procured a hose and scattered groups of students with water, according to observers.

Police News

Robert Potts, 23, orange picker, was arrested Saturday night downtown, on a drunk charge. He was released to his brother and is to appear in the city police court today.

Justice Wins First Suit As Attorney

Versatile fellow these justices of the peace. When business in their court falls off they don't just sit around and wait. No sir, they enter private practice and try cases in superior court.

All of which is just a preface to saying that Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison has won his first superior court judgment as an attorney. Morrison successfully passed the state bar examination several months ago and was admitted to practice in California. Friday he went into department two superior court, before Superior Judge F. C. Cellier and was granted a judgment for $1964.07 in connection with foreclosure of a mortgage on behalf of J. W. Schroer against L. M. Ballard.

How It Works

Postmaster T. E. Stephenson today called attention to the method used by the swindlers. The scheme consists in sending letters to certain persons, who have previously been selected by confederates. The foundation of the plot varies. In some instances the writer represents himself as a dying prisoner in a military fortress. He has a fortune on deposit in the United States but the certificates of stock are concealed in a secret receptacle in his alias, which has been seized by the Spanish court, and will be held until the prisoner or his representative has satisfied the suitable way to raise the needed revenue.

He claims, sometimes, relationship with the addressee. If the first letter bears fruit, it is quickly followed by others in which the prisoner's daughter plays a prominent part. She is in Spain without a protector. A proposal is made to send her, accompanied by a priest, to the newly found relative for protection. If enough money is sent to release the value containing the secret receptacle and the certificate of deposit. If the relative will accept the trust he is to receive a portion of the money. Of course, the "relative" never hears from the swindlers after he has sent the money requested.

Under many foreign laws, postal officials pointed out, police may not act unless the money is actually paid over, which makes it difficult to formulate charges against the swindlers.

Anaheim Rancher Dies At His Home

James B. Mulvey, 75, retired rancher, died yesterday afternoon at his home on East Center street, Anaheim. The deceased was a native of Indiana, and had been a resident of Anaheim for the past 16 years. He is survived by his wife, Cornelia; two sons, William H. Mulvey, Anaheim, and K. H. Mulvey, of Pomona; and a daughter, Mrs. Belle Onpko, of Glendale. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 10 a. m. from Backa, Terry and Campbell's chapel, Anaheim.

Both of the letters were identical. The text of the letters is as follows: "I am imprisoned in this city for a bankruptcy and reckoning in your honesty, I beg to beseech you herewith to come here to take away my equipages seizure in order to seize upon a trunk containing a secret in which I have hidden the documents indispensable to you to come in possession of $300,000 that I have in a foreign bank without you have to lay any sum until you have the documents in your power.

BUDGET

The treasury will soon espouse the cause of the sales tax either publicly or privately. It will also pointedly neglect to place any obstacle in the path of beer. Underneath it needs both to balance the budget.

That much has been confidentially decided by the boys who run that administration department. The decision was necessary in their minds after looking over the depicted condition of the federal till. They could think of no other suitable way to raise the needed revenue.

The confidential figures placed before Treasury Secretary Mills by his experts will be made public around December 1. They will show the deficit expected this fiscal year will be around a billion dollars. It may run to slightly more than a billion and a quarter. That depends on how much happier the experts can get over business prospects in the next few days.

Last quarter business is picking up. It may lead the treasury to estimate receipts from the remainder of the fiscal year, until June 30.

BEER

The treasury statisticians are convinced that even a three per cent sales tax would not be enough to balance the budget. That is why they have been led to toy privately with a beer tax.

They figure a tax of $8 per barrel on beer would raise around $200,000,000. That is a conservative guess. It depends on a tax of three cents per pint providing a certain number of states permit sales.

The question of how many people will go on making home brew was also considered in that estimate. Even with beer legalized home brewing would be cheaper—but not so good.

GUESSERS

Much hullabaloo will be raised over Mills being so sadly askew in his estimates of what the last tax bill would bring. It will amount to a public hazing of Mills in congress. There is no question about his having been away off. There is a question how much he is to blame. It is clear now that the treasury could not foresee the course of business during the last year. Neither can it do any more than guess what business will be up to June 30. The life of a treasury expert is hard.

RENTENCE

There are good reasons why the treasury may choose not to blurt out all its ideas in public. One is that the Democratic house must share the responsibility for initiating revenue raising measures. It may prove to be better politics to let the Democrats decide how the budget should be balanced. Likewise beer was not a part of the Republican platform. Drys have indeed spread the word Mr. Hoover would veto such a bill. On that subject at any rate the treasury will undoubtedly let the Democrats take the reins.

OUTLOOK

The heart beats of business suggest to the wise men of Washington that we may have a comparatively strong final quarter for the year.

Production is predicted to run 15 per cent below last year. So far it has been averaging about 50 per cent below on the year. Cotton mill activity is figured to show an improvement over all of 1931. Automobiles are overdue for better things. Production has been running far behind sales.

All in all it looks to government men like a brighter Christmas. Beyond that no one is looking.

TERMS

The St. Lawrence waterway treaty will be ratified some day—but not now.

The private trend of the senate open hearings continues strongly against early action. The jury is supposed to be impartial. Outwardly it is. Inwardly you can detect three probable opposition votes which would be a majority of one. The three are Borah, Glenn and Wagner. They have not announced their positions and may change if later developments warrant.

Only one friend of the treaty stands out on the committee. He is Walsh of Montana.

NOTES

The drys privately hoped to play the sales tax against the beer tax in congress but the treasury figures will prevent that strategy.

Instead it will help the two to go hand-in-hand...The big three for the cabinet, Owen Young, Newton Baker and John W. Davis, are supposed to be reluctant to serve for personal business reasons...The pre-occupation of big men in their own businesses and the necessity for distributing cabinet jobs geographically will make final choices a tough task....Four years ago Mr. Hoover issued virtually the same warning against cabinet speculation as was issued by Governor Roosevelt...

You can't stop people from thinking and talking about those things.

FEDERAL RESERVE

The recent meeting of the governors of the federal reserve banks revived an old argument between New York and the interior banks. The latter are getting a bit fed up with holding on to such huge allotments of governments. New York still maintains that the buying and holding of governments is sound policy. The argument resulted in a compromise agreement. There will be little or no selling of governments in the open market but it is understood that issues maturing in the next few months will be redeemed in cash and not replaced by subscriptions to refinancing issues.

HIGH SCHOOL PAPER WINS HIGH HONORS; PUBLICATION OF J. C. GETS SECOND AWARD

Carrying off first-place honors in front-page makeup for the sixth consecutive time, and taking two seconds in the editorial and sports contests, the Santa Ana High school Generator, edited this semester by Larry Taylor, came up to all expectations in Class "B" competition at the Southern California High School Press convention in Los Angeles Saturday.

The Generator shared honors with the Riverside High school Spotlight, which won first place in sports page makeup and second on front page.

An editorial, written by Taylor, came within five-tenths of a point winning first place in Class "B" competition. The Generator sports page, which won second place for makeup, is edited by Harry Appleby and James Jenks.

The annual spring convention of the association will be held in San Diego, it was voted Saturday. J. C. Results

Entered in a contest at the Southern California Junior College Press convention in Compton, El Don, weekly publication at Santa Ana Junior college, was awarded second place for front-page makeup. El Don is edited by Gene Robb, sophomore, with James Terrens as news editor.

The Los Angeles Collegian won most of the honors at the junior college convention. The Compton Tartar, usual winner, was host Saturday, and was not entered in the competition.

In its bid for the spring convention, Santa Ana lost out to San Bernardino by one vote. Twenty-one official delegates cast votes, and 10 favored Santa Ana.

Edgar M. Flowers, head of the high school and junior college journalism department, is faculty adviser for both the Generator and El Don.

ORANGE CHIEF IS SUED FOR FALSE ARREST

Charging that he was arrested on a false charge and that at the time of his arrest a warrant had not been issued, Ernest E. Vinsonhaler, Orange, filed suit Saturday against B. F. Richards, chief of police in Orange. Vinsonhaler is demanding $10,000 actual damages and $500 special damages.

According to his complaint, Vinsonhaler was arrested at his home November 4 and accused of indecent exposure. He was taken from his home to the office of Justice of the Peace A. W. Swayze. Swayze was not in and Richards was brought to Santa Ana where, he alleges, Richards secured a warrant for his arrest charging him with a misdemeanor.

Vinsonhaler was placed in the jail at Orange under $500 bond where he was held for 12 hours until he secured bond, the complaint recites.

According to his complaint Vinsonhaler was taken before the city recorder in Orange on November 14 and the charges against him dismissed.

He declared in his complaint that at the time of his arrest Richards knew that the charge against him was false and that he signed it maliciously, premeditatedly and without probable cause. He is demanding $10,000 for the humiliation caused by his arrest and the additional $50 for the amount paid to secure his release under a bail bond.

INTO THE VALLEY OF DEATH

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by John Charlton, after the famous painting depicting the heroic Charge of the Light Brigade in the face of a withering fire at the battle of Balaklava in the Crimean War (1854). "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

MATERIAL HERE FOR STAGING BATTLE SCENE

by an exhibition drill by the drum corps, followed by the entrance of the "enemy" troops into the position. Next the "allies" will be shown leaving for the "front" and their arrival behind the lines. The action starts by the entrance into "no man's land" of an outpost, start of the artillery barrage and then the start of the infantry attack. During the latter an airplane will be brought down in flames upon the field. The action closes with the capture of the objective and a display of fireworks set pieces symbolizing the end of hostilities.

With the arrival of pyrotechnic material and scenery for the National Guard and Legion Drum Corps battle spectacle, "A Night in the Argonne," active preparations will start for the two night exhibition at the municipal bowl next Friday and Saturday. Several days work is required to prepare the field, install equipment, wiring, guns and build the sets.

Meantime, the "general staff," consisting of the officers of the four companies of the Third Battalion, 185th Infantry, and the executive committee of the drum corps is meeting this evening to go over the orders of the action, plan the division of the troops for the opposing forces. Present plans call for the National Guard units to represent the opposing "armies" with the former service men of the Legion handling the artillery, machine guns, mines, and pyrotechnic effects.

The program to be shown each of the two nights will be headed

SECOND NIGHT OF COURT PLAY ATTRACTS MANY

Repeating on Saturday night, the success achieved by their first presentation of "The Swan" on the previous night in Ebell auditorium, members of the Community Players cast of this entertaining comedy of Balkan court life, were greeted by a crowd that practically filled the auditorium.

The attention given the players was quite as close and as appreciative as on the opening night, and the close of each scene brought continued applause from the entertained audience. Contributing to the general pleasure was the musical program between acts, when Elwood Bear, whose junior violin ensemble had given a pleasing program on the opening night, presented a group of more advanced players. Their numbers added to the pleasure of the audience, and Bear and one of the members of the ensemble heightened the effect of the play itself when they furnished the music behind the scenes for the second act.

Following the play all those who had worked either as actors or members of the various committees, joined in a merry supper in the peacock room of Ebell club-house. Several members of the cast had friends from other Southland cities here especially for the play, and these were included in the long list of supper guests.

ANAHEIM MAN ENDS LIFE WITH PISTOL SHOT

Despondency over his financial condition, today caused Oliver P. M. Brougher, 62-year-old Anaheim rancher to take his life.

Brougher shot and killed himself in a hay barn on his ranch on Route No. 1, Anaheim at 6 a.m. today, using a .32 caliber pistol. The bullet entered the back of his head, behind the right ear. He was dead when his wife discovered the body a short time later. She called a physician, who pronounced the man dead.

A note, found in the man's pocket addressed to his wife, told of his financial difficulties and his despondency over them. Brougher got up as usual this morning, it was reported, and went to the barn to milk. When he did not return in a reasonable time, Mrs. Brougher made an investigation.

The body was removed to the Higgenfeld Funeral parlors at Anaheim where funeral services will be held. Coroner Earl Abney, who with L. H. Nicholson, deputy sheriff, made an investigation, reported there would be no inquest held.

Besides his widow, Brougher is survived by 10 children, all of whom are grown.

GRATITUDE TOWARD GOD, SERMON TOPIC

Basing his sermon, entitled "Practical Thanksgiving," on the text, "What shall I render to Jehovah for all His benefits toward me?" the Rev. W. S. Buchanan preached yesterday morning at the First Christian church on the need of expressing thanks for blessings.

"We are always asking God to give, but we seldom remember to thank Him for His care and goodness to us," the pastor declared. "People should feel they are very ungrateful if they do not honor God with services.

"God must grow weary of our eternal asking. Let us remember to give Him thanks with out own lives. Life in harmony with God is filled with peace and reflects Christ to the world."

TEN MARRIAGES ARE ENDED BY COURT DECREES

by NINA WILCOX PUTNAM

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING INSTALLMENTS.

Closing his business in department one at noon Friday, Superior Judge F. C. Collier, of Los Angeles, sitting here in place of Judge H. G. Ames who is in San Bernardino as judge in the fourth district court of appeals, moved into department two and took the place of Judge James G. Allen.

With one court functioning, Judge Collier granted nine decrees of divorce and one annulment.

Mrs. Jeffie L. Poor was granted a divorce from Harry L. Poor and custody of the couple's minor son on a charge of desertion. The Poors were married in Santa Ana in 1921 and separated in 1926.

Mrs. Maria Lopez accused her husband Julio Lopez of desertion, cruelty, and non-support and was awarded a decree of divorce on those grounds. They married in 1926 and separated in 1928.

Harold B. Neth told the court that his wife, Mrs. Iva Neth deserted him in 1921 and was given a decree. The Neths were married in 1922 and separated in 1923.

Mrs. Veida N. Lockett, of Santa Ana, gave him an interlocutory decree of divorce from Henry J. Lockett and custody of the couple's 16-year-old son on a charge of desertion. The Locketts were married in 1917 and separated in 1921.

Mrs. Norah Rapier, 19-year-old Anaheim matron, in a suit filed in her behalf by her father, Frank Bush, secured a divorce decree from Paul Rapier and custody of the couple's child on her charge of non-support. The Rapiers were married in May, 1921, and separated January 29, last.

Alfred A. Phillips of Santa Ana had his marriage to Mrs. Grace G. Phillips annulled on the grounds that his wife was physically unable to consummate the marriage. The Phillips were married in San Bernardino December 1, 1929.

Ben R. Crewe was cold, intolerant and cruel to his wife, Mrs. Beulah Crews, of Santa Ana, she charged and secured a decree of divorce. She told the court that when her husband left her he said that he did not know where he was going but would probably end up in Oregon. The Crews were married in 1928 and separated May 27, last.

Desertion was grounds on which R. E. Lindsay, Santa Ana, secured a divorce from Mrs. Franklin Lindsay. They were married in 1929 and separated in 1932.

Telling the court her husband treated her cruelly and called her by wife names and left her on two occasions, Mrs. Ethel Wittenbrake of Anaheim secured a divorce from Leo B. Wittenbrake. They were married January 2, 1932 and separated April 18, last.

After 12 years of nagging and false accusations of intimacies with other men, Mrs. Ada Madison, of Anaheim, decided to get a divorce from Charles C. Madison, according to her complaint. She was awarded a decree on her charge of cruelty. The Madisons were married in 1900 and separated July 20, 1932. The cruel treatment started 12 years ago she told the court.

at the beginning of the damp, overgrown driveway.

Swinging her car around, Alacia looked at the entrance with some trepidation. How was she to explain her visit if Armand were not there? Everything she had ever heard about the exclusiveness and inhospitality of the French aristocracy re-occurred to her, and she began to feel a little foolish and sorry at having come uninvited. However, there were fresh tire marks on the damp earth of the road, and the sight gave her courage, for evidently the old Oliver had gone over the ground only a little while ago, and consequently Armand must be at home! With a tremendous feeling of relief she drove past the mouldy gates and headed up the winding, mysterious driveway between the thick trees.

It was pitch dark by now, yet there was no light showing in the sombre chateau which presently loomed before her at the end of an open court. The place looked completely deserted, as if it had been uninhabited for years; the lawn had been allowed to run wild, and the few flower beds showed signs of neglect. The house itself had a singularly mournful air and several of the upper windows had been permanently boarded up, while even those on the lower floors were tightly shuttered against the night air, after the usual French manner. But on the cobblestones of the little courtyard Armand's old car stood parked near what was evidently the main entrance, a humorously reassuring sight in an otherwise unfamiliar and antagonistic setting. Alacia brought her own magnificent automobile to a standstill beside it, and giving the old Oliver an affectionate pat in passing, ran up the shallow steps and knocked on the door.

For a long while it seemed as if there was to be no reply, but at length Alacia could hear steps shuffling across a paved floor inside. There was the sound of a heavy bolt being drawn, and presently the door swung open to disclose the bent figure of very old man, carrying a lighted lamp. Behind him was an immense hall, thick with weird, fluttering shadows.

"Bonsoir!" said Alacia, a little disconcerted. "May I see Monsieur Armand, please?"

"Monsieur le Prince is not here."

said the man suspiciously. "What was it that you wanted, Mademoiselle?"

"But he must be here!" cried Alacia. "His car is just outside. And it's terribly important for me to see him. Tell him it is Mademoiselle Sayers."

"Monsieur le Prince is not here," the man insisted. "We receive no one without appointment."

NEW PLYMOUTH ON DISPLAY AT DODGE AGENCY

After having been sensationalized by radio to more than 75,000 dealers throughout the nation, the new Plymouth Six is now in display in approximately 7300 De Soto, Dodge and Chrysler showrooms.

Hundreds of persons here have viewed the new car, now on display at the L. D. Coffing agency at Fifth and Spurgeon streets.

Entirely new from bumper to bumper; and top to tires, the new motor car literally represents the height of perfection in the low priced field, it is asserted.

According to a statement made by Walter P. Chrysler, manufacturer, four body models will be sold at an average decrease of $60 under the four cylinder line.

Mounted on a 107-inch wheelbase, the new Plymouth Six has been designed for perfection of appearance as well as ample room for driver and passenger comfort. In general the lines are streamlined with deep sloping radiator; wide deep front fenders and rear fenders constructed to conceal the chassis; a similarly concealed gasoline tank sloping hood louvers carrying out the trend of windshield and radiator as well as other refinements.

Bodies are of the Safety-steel type, constructed only of steel welded into one complete unit with adequate bracing and ribbing at all strain-points.

The engine, seventy horsepower, is mounted on rubber at two points and utilizes the famous "Floating Power" patent of smooth power. With a bore of 3 1/8 inches and a stroke of 4 1/8 inches, with a total displacement of 189.8 cubic inches, developing 70 brake horsepower at 3,600 R. P. M., the new engine furnishes ample power for modern driving demands.

The floating power mountings for the Plymouth Six engine differs slightly from previous design in that the torque spring has been replaced by two rubber insulators which absorb the shock imposed when the engine is accelerated suddenly.

The free-wheeling unit is of the cam and roller type developed by Chrysler engineers. The unit itself is housed in the transmission case. Another feature of transmission is the silent second gear using helical constant mesh gears. The same automatic clutch mechanism utilized in Chrysler products has been retained by the new Plymouth Six. A device has been added, however, known as the inertia compensator, it automatically adjusts the rate of clutch engagement regardless of driver's foot accelerator manipulation.

The program is unusual as only two programs each day are open to request and the added attraction of a free turkey is expected to bring forth many telephone requests for numbers.

To handle the expected large number of telephone calls an extra operator will be added to the studio staff for the time of the broadcast tonight to expedite telephone service. The studio number is 4300.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR BARBARA ISCH, VICTIM OF CRASH, HELD TODAY

LAGUNA BEACH, Nov. 21.—Solemn but impressive ceremonies of the Catholic church marked the funeral at 10 o'clock this morning in picturesque St. Catherine's chapel of Miss Barbara Isch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Isch, pioneer Orange County family, who was killed in an automobile accident last Friday evening, near Half Moon Bay, on the Coast Highway south of San Francisco.

A requiem high mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father J. L. Lehane, pastor of St. Catherine's, and a brother, Maurice Isch of San Juan Capistrano; and her cousins, Miss Josephine Yoch of Encinitas, Mrs. Theodore G. Lewellen of Berkeley; Mrs. N. E. West of Laguna Beach; Miss Florence Yoch of Pasadena, and Mrs. Caroline Barnett of Tustin.

The funeral was attended by friends and relatives from all parts of Southern California and the little chapel was filled before the service began. Miss Nadine Nopel, whom she had been visiting at the time of the accident, came from San Francisco. The pallbearers were her cousins, Joseph and Redmond Barnett Jr., Postmaster Brayton S. Norton and George Griffith of Laguna Beach, Malcom Arculah of San Marino and Robert Chapman of Santa Ana.

Interment was in the old part of Fairhaven cemetery, where her little brother Jack, was buried many years ago. The arrangements were made by the Laguna Beach Funeral home.

The service was conducted by the Rev. W. A. Matson, pastor of the Wintersburg Methodist church. Music was provided by a quartet from the church including John Murdy, C. E. Pratt, Mrs. John Stinson, Mrs. Eva Friend who sang "Rock of Ages" and "Some Day We'll Understand." Pallbearers were young friends of the deceased. J. ED. HUSTON IS MENTIONED AS POSTMASTER

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Nov. 21.—J. Ed Huston is being mentioned for the postoffice job at Huntington Beach. A petition has been circulated and has 100 signatures and over to locate the new postoffice building at the northeast corner of Olive and Main streets on various lots at that location. These lots are owned, six by the Huntington Beach company and two by D. O. Stewart.

The most important rival site is Triangle park which the city council has offered to donate to the government and which is located at Fifth and Main. The petition favoring the Olive and Main corner will be presented to the city council. If Huston, who is a member of the council, obtains the postmastership here, he will take office in the new federal building for which the government has appropriated $80,000 to be spent entirely on the building, the site to be donated free to the government, no matter where located.

The term of W. L. Clapp, present postmaster, expires in May. He is a Republican. As the congressman of this district is a Republican, the naming of the postmaster will fall to United States Senator William G. McAdoo. It is understood that Senator McAdoo will follow the recommendations of the Democratic county central committee in all appointments. D. W. (Boxie) Huston, brother of Ed Huston is a member of the county central committee and one of the old-time Democratic "wheelhorses" of this part of Orange county.

The Democratic committee met in Santa Ana Friday night and will, at an early date meet again to decide on its recommendations for Orange county federal offices. Ed French, former deputy sheriff and former mayor of Huntington Beach, now a resident of Costa Mesa is a candidate for the post office at Costa Mesa.

If Councilman Ed Huston is named postmaster he will be compelled to resign from the city council, leaving a vacancy to be filled by appointment by the present council. The new councilman would serve until 1934 in April when an election will be held.

At that time the terms of Councilmen Chris H. King and Ed B. Stevens expire also, which would, if Huston resigns, make the next municipal election one in which control of the council would be vested in the three new members, as the council consists of five members. It is generally conceded that Huston will be named postmaster. He served as postmaster in Winfield, Ia., before coming to Huntington Beach.

An original essay on "Thanksgiving" was given by Mrs. L. R. Daughenbaugh, club program chairman.

Mrs. E. V. Minor and Mrs. W. A. Sexton, hostesses for the day served delicious cakes and tea in the sun room following the program.

by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

Reports from South Bend indicate there is a great deal of gloom on the campus nowadays whenever the team falls down on a football assignment, such as happened at Pittsburgh recently. It may be that Notre Dame, where there should be about like rice in China, needs a gag-man to keep the boys in something similar to the humor that Rockne always managed to preserve.

There is a very good gag-man up at East Lansing, Mich., coaching a very respectable football team known as Michigan State. This is no one else but "Sleepy Jim" Crowley, one of the few Horsemen, and the man of whom Rock once said, "He always looks as if he's either going to or getting out of bed."

He is the man of whom Rock also said, "His style of thought and good-humored balance of character was of the sterling stuff that wears better in adversity than in success." So perhaps Crowley is not only a gag-man but a character builder, as well.

NOWHERE, BUT TO BED

Many of Crowley's gags have become legendary. There was the game, for instance, when Northwestern gave the Four Horsemen a very bad day. The boys were a bit stale and were up against an inspired team. Play after play was stopped. It was only after a nightmarish battle that the Horsemen managed to win.

That night on the train, a typos gent could not find his ticket. When the conductor asked him: "Where are you going, New York, Toledo or Cleveland?" he replied, "I don't know—I guess I'm not going anywhere."

Whereupon Crowley turned to his teammates and remarked, "He must be one of the Four Horsemen."

Crowley could take it, in his football days. There was the reception game in which he once had to punt after Layden was injured. Crowley had a habit of taking a step or two before kicking. The kick was blocked and resulted in a safety for Princeton. After the game, a teammate kicked him about his kicking.

"Yeah," replied Crowley, "I'm a triple-threat man—trip, stumble and fumble."

GETTING GARBISCH'S GOAT

It was Crowley who thought of a neat way to irritate Garbisch, the famous West Point star, in the Army game of that year. Whenever one of the Horsemen would manage to smear Garbisch, Crowley would turn to Don Miller in surprise and say, "You don't mean to tell me that's the great Mr. Garbisch?"

To which Miller's carefully prepared reply would be: "If the number is correct, that must be the great Mr. Garbisch!"

Rockne called Crowley "the easiest back I've known," which seems to this writer to indicate that he held a pretty high opinion of the young man, in view of the very backs I've seen wearing a tattered uniform.

"Also," said Rock, "since I'm using superlatives where they belong, he was the greatest interferer for his weight I have ever seen, and a particularly effective ball carrier on the critical third down. He would throw himself anywhere!"

THE LAUGH ON ROCK

But at that, Rockne once good-humoredly kidded Crowley on his courage. It was when the coach was criticizing the play of the regulars and Crowley was still a scrub.

"Why, that red-headed kid over there could run right through you," said Rockne, pointing to the 155-pound Crowley.

To which Crowley replied, affecting a soprano voice: "I didn't say that now, fellows."

Rockne yelled over to Crowley with this: "You don't mean to say you haven't got the courage!"

And Crowley, in the same quavering falsetto, replied: "But coach, I've got responsibilities at home and my life insurance has lapsed!"

O'Brien and Berti Win Six-Day Race

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Henry ("Cocky") O'Brien and Ruggero ("Red") Berti of San Jose completed 1812 miles of cycling late last night to lead a field of nine teams to victory in the six-day bicycle race at the Winter Garden Velodrome.

O'Brien and Berti led virtually throughout, finished eight laps ahead of their nearest rivals.

SAINTS TRAIN GUNS ON GLENDALE Bemis Routs Robinson For S. A. Golf Crown

COUNTRY CLUB FINAL IS EASY FOR NEW KING

After the most one-sided final in the history of the tournament, Lawrence W. Bemis today became 1932-33 golf champion of the Santa Ana Country club.

Defeating L. Homer Robinson, 11 and 9, the thumbs yesterday succeeded to the throne which Ed Holmes Jr. has held for the past five years.

Off his game from the very first, Robinson was unable to give Bemis more than a mild workout. The match was decided after 27 holes instead of the customary 36.

Robinson won only five holes, halved but six. He shot the poorest golf since he has been a championship contender, his medal score for the morning round being 88 to Bemis' 78, and his afternoon efforts being no better.

The cards:

First 18 Holes
(On) 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18
Par	5 4 4 3 4 4 5 5 6 5 4 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5
Robinson	5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5
Bemis	5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5

Second 18 Holes
(In) 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18
Par	4 5 4 3 4 4 3 5 5 6 4 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5
Robinson	4 6 4 3 5 5 4 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5
Bemis	6 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5

Often a contender, once a finalist, Bemis this year becomes champion for the first time since the club championship tournament has been held.

The titleholder drew Earl Wilson in the first round, won by default. His stirring defeat of the perennial champion, Holmes, in a spirited 18-hole match that was decided on the last green by Bemis' 8-foot putt, greened Bemis. Eliminated C. R. Furr, 3 and 2, in last week's semi-finals and then overwhelmed Robinson yesterday, Robinson went into the finals by beating D. E. Liggett, M. N. Thompson and W. C. Fletcher.

SAINTS PRACTICE IN SECRET THIS WEEK

With San Diego still a mathematical menace, Santa Ana Hi's football squad will practice in secret this week for its important Coast Preparatory league game at Glendale Saturday, Coach "Tex" Oliver said today.

San Diego remained in the running by virtue of its 20-7 victory over Glendale Saturday while the Saints were beating Fullerton, 14-0, in a non-conference contest here. The Hillers had little trouble turning back the Blasters although Ned Bartlett, Glendale's fast half-back, scored a touchdown in the last quarter.

Weather favors Huskies

The weather may have a hand in deciding the wishbone pulling melee at Seattle. The Huskies are accustomed to the chilly, rainy weather of their own locality, while the Trojans have been playing all season on a warm, dry turf. Needless to add, Coach Jimmy Phelan's Messrs. Muczynski, Cherberg and Sulkoyski are pointing for the contest, fully aware of the prestige that would be theirs should they beat the Cougars, they still must play Washington December 3.

The Cougars have beaten California and tied Washington and are considered on a par with the Bruins. Even should Bill Spaulding's aggregation turn back the Cougars, they still must play Washington December 3.

WEATHER FAVORS HUSKIES

The weather may have a hand in deciding the wishbone pulling melee at Seattle. The Huskies are accustomed to the chilly, rainy weather of their own locality, while the Trojans have been playing all season on a warm, dry turf. Needless to add, Coach Jimmy Phelan's Messrs. Muczynski, Cherberg and Sulkoyski are pointing for the contest, fully aware of the prestige that would be theirs should they beat the Cougars, they still must play Washington December 3.

These two contests will be the only conference games this week: Oregon's heavy Weebet journey down to San Francisco to battle the powerful St. Mary's Gaels, and Idaho's Vandals go to Boise for a tilt with the Utah Aggies.

Saturday, Montana beaten in six conference titles, plays Gonzaga at Spokane.

Standford's Cardinals were en route to Pittsburgh today, somewhat bruised and weary after their scoreless tie with California in the traditional clash between the two teams Saturday. The Cardinals won half-a-game.

THANKSGIVING AFFIRMATIONS. SERMON THEME

The kindness of God has not failed by any test that we may apply," said Perry Frederick Schrock in his sermon at the First Congregational Church yesterday morning. The speaker stated that in former years the Sunday before Thanksgiving had been observed as a Thank Offering day but that this year it would be observed as a day in which we personally turn to God.

"The greatest thing we can do, right now, is to turn to God," continued Mr. Schrock. "We are prodigals in a far country and we have wasted our substance. Now we are in want. The want is more than financial; it is spiritual and moral. We need to come to ourselves and realize that in our Father's house there is plenty—and to spare. Let us arise and go to our Father. This is a day we owe to the Eternal; let us be glad and rejoice in it."

"I want to observe this Thanksgiving Sunday by making three great affirmations. Here is the first one. His kindness never fails. There are many people who have become bitter, or grown indifferent, because they think God has failed them, or that they were mistaken in their faith in God. His kindness has not failed. Any reasonable test we may apply will confirm that statement. God has not failed to provide the necessities of life.

"There are millions in want—that is true. But there is an abundance of food. There is no failure in the fruits of the fields. There is ample wheat for bread; there is plenty of cotton and wool for clothing; there is no shortage of coal and gas and electricity for warmth and light. God has provided an abundance of everything we need, and to spare. Man has failed in his task of propagation and distribution. God cannot make Antonio Stradivari's violins without Antonio. And God cannot feed and clothe humanity without humanity's help. Justice, goodness, beauty, truth, have not failed. They are the gifts of God as truly as wheat and oranges. Men have failed to do justly, to be good, to appreciate beauty, to tell the truth. Here is affirmation number two. I have the Eternal as my Helper."

"Far better rely on the Eternal than to put faith in princes." Let us paraphrase this in this way: Far better rely on the Eternal than put faith in politicians. We have just been through a warm political campaign. Some have felt that salvation depended upon the success of their politicians. Far better rely on the Eternal! That is, it is far better to rely on the eternal verities than upon political success. When the majority of voters really rely on the eternal verities, which would be relying on the Eternal, the poli-ticals will begin to espouse these verities.

"Now for the third affirmation. The Eternal's right hand carries the day. The Eternal's right hand triumphs." It is an affirmation of victory. The world is not coming to an end. Civilization is not to give way to chaos.

"Truth crushed to earth shall rise again."

The eternal verities of God are here.

"In a recent popular book a great character said, as he lay dying, 'There are experiences which take the place of philosophy.' The truth of that statement we can readily demonstrate. Let us take these three affirmations and act upon them and we will have some experiences that will take the place of philosophy. His kindness never fails. I have the Eternal as my Helper. The Eternal's right hand triumphs!"

POULTRY PRODUCERS GET HALF MILLION

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Nov. 21—Checks totaling $489,640 were being distributed today to members of the Poultry Producers Association of Central California, C. T. Barker, head of the organization announced.

The cash distribution represents retirement of working capital of the co-operative and is made possible through settlement of accounts and the prospects for a steady market throughout the early winter months, Barker said. Cold storage stocks have been noticeably reduced, he added, predicting a "very bright" future for poultry producers.

The organization includes producers from Fresno county north to Tehama county.

"COUNTING COST" THEME FOR PASTOR

"Counting the Cost" was the sermon theme of the Rev. C. C. Houston, pastor of the Church of Christ at the morning service yesterday. In his sermon he said in part:

"Jesus in the thought of building the tower shows us that we do not get very far if we do not count the cost. In the Christian life we need to count the cost in what we may give up in the world on the one side and what we may lose on the other. If we do not give up wrong things, and if we do not live the Christian life, Paul said 'How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation?' If we cease to have the love for God and Christ we should have the love for one another and are lost in eternity, then the cost of sin has been terrible. If we do not make the effort and try to mold into our character the life of bonds."

ALERT COUNCILMAN

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Every one on the council but Mr. Karns had voted on the question of a bond issue for the improvement of streets. "Councilman Karns," called the recorder. He got no answer. There sat Karns as stiff as a statue, fast asleep. The chairman barked his gavel and the recorder raised another shout. "Aye," shouted Karns coming to life. And he looked sheepish when told he had voted to issue $100,000 worth of bonds.

News Of The Churches

BISHOP HERE, ADMINISTERS CONFIRMATION

choice for evil. Let us think how valuable good habits may be, how it becomes easy and instinctive to follow the right if we but form good habits. To be strong, we must develop right habits.

Must Direct Wills

"Next we must direct our wills to the elimination of conflicts. We cannot do two things at once, and we cannot do something well if our minds are occupied with something entirely different. Too often we do something poorly not because we do not want to do it, but because of inner conflict, we keep thinking of something else we want to do rather than of what we are doing.

"If we would accomplish anything in the life of the spirit, we must think of life as the doing of the will of God, the expression in our lives of Jesus Christ. To be strong in the Lord we must put good things into our lives in the place of bad" habits and internal conflicts. This is where the church comes in, it gives us aid in the spiritual life, the church services, Holy Communion, confirmation, and other rites and sacraments are all helps in our struggle for good and in our search for God. Having received the full measure of the Holy Spirit to make us strong, we must use this spirit to express and reflect Christ, the strong Elder Brother, from whose living presence come the things that make us like Him, self-sacrificing and kindly as He was."

Yesterday the Rt. Rev. W. Bortrand Stevens, Bishop of the Diocese of Los Angeles and San Diego, visited the Church of the Messiah to administer the rite of confirmation to the 10 members of the class presented by the Rector, the Rev. W. J. Hatter. The service was part of the morning prayer at 11 a. m., when the choir sang most delightfully Dudley Buck's "Festival Te Deum." Louis Silva, the well-known Los Angeles tenor, sang "Fear Ye Not, O Israel" also by Dudley Buck. The offertory anthem sung by the choir with Mrs. Helen Griffiths and Dwight Tock as soloists, was "The Lord is My Rock."

Bishop Stevens chose as his text the tenth verse of the sixth chapter of Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians. He said in part: "This verse suggests an ideal for the Christian life as contemplated by those recently confirmed. Some feel that this verse needs no interpretation as there is little chance that the strength which comes from the Lord will be mistaken for that obtained in the gymnasium. The source of this strength is from God and is never failing. Something more often discussed is the freedom of will referred to many times in the New Testament as desire plus determination. Practically all Bible students agree that man was created with the power of choice. Some, however, believe that this choice is lost with Adam's sin and that only those can be saved upon whom falls God's irresistible grace, that we have no power to choose salvation rather than condemnation.

Not Believable

"We, however, do not believe this, it violates all human judgment to believe that we have no chance for salvation if we choose it. Were we mere automatons, victims of nerve impulses initiated by outside stimuli with no power of choice, life would be meaningless, we could have no regrets for past ill deeds, no wish to do better in the future. In every human being is a spark of the divine and a power to choose the right from the wrong. In confirmation, we believe that God bestows on those confirmed a larger, fuller measure of the Holy Ghost to aid us in our choice of right against wrong.

"There are two ways to use the Christian life to make us 'strong in the Lord,' formation of good habits and the elimination of conflicts. The more we know of the mind and body, the more we know that life depends on habits. Every act starts a sort of groove which makes that same act easier the second and subsequent times until it becomes a habit difficult or impossible to break. Most people do not do wrong because they know no better, but because it is something they want to do whether right or wrong, and all too soon the habit is established, a tragedy has occurred because we heeded not the voice of God but used our

"LET US GIVE THANKS" THEME OF REV. OWINGS

Thanksgiving was the theme for the morning sermon yesterday at the First Baptist church. The Rev. Harry Evans Owings, pastor, spoke on the subject "Let Us Give Thanks." In his talk he called attention to the fact that the people have spurned God's desire and plan through permitting millions of people to be in want in the midst of plenty.

His sermon in part was:

"The more we bring to mind those Pilgrim forbears of the pioneer heart who cut out for themselves a clearing from the wooded New England coast three centuries ago the higher rises the tide of our admiration for their sturdy courage. Though three thousand miles of ocean separated them from the friends and the fire-sides of home, though forbidding forests filled with lurking hostile creatures both beast and man hemmed them in, though a harsh and rigorous winter broke upon them, crops failed, disease and death took heavy toll from their small company, and the whole outlook was more than dismal, yet instead of giving up to adverse conditions the counsel prevailed to have a day and a feast of thanksgiving in acknowledgment of the powers and gifts and blessings that were theirs. Bravo! mighty forbear. Thanksgiving Day was born.

"What a truth for us to grasp in these days of privation and distress, of anxiety and uncertainty. For we are in the control of our attitudes no matter how unpleasant the situation. We can decide whether we shall complain about what we do not have or be filled with gratitude for what we do have. One family sits about a well filled table and finds fault with the food. Another with no more provisions, to speak less, turns gratefully to thank the heavenly Father for its supply of daily bread.

"Then the constant adoption of the attitude of thankfulness leads of course into the habit of thankfulness. Not only do we express our thanks at meal time but for the helpful book, the beautiful painting, the glory of the sun, the beauty of the flower and tree, the friends we have, the work we do. Life becomes an unbroken expression of our thanksgiving.

"Above all we thank God for his unspeakable gift—Jesus Christ. But as we do our hearts sink within us to realize that we have spurned his desire and plan for us in that with our plenty to go around there are millions without a means of livelihood and multitudes in want. Thankful indeed for Him we must let Him show us where we are wrong and lead us to what is right and just."

CIVIC MUSIC ASSOCIATION OPENS DRIVE

The organization of the local committees in the various population centers of Orange county, for the purpose of conducting sectional campaigns to secure additional members for the Civic Music association of Orange county is well under way, it was reported today by officers of the association.

Orange, under the leadership of local chairman, Phyllis Lucy Keyes, is endeavoring to attain its quota of 150 memberships, thereby insuring one of the remaining concerts to be given there.

A sectional meeting is to be held in Fullerton today under the leadership of Mrs. Jack Horner, Mrs. A. M. Edwards, Harold E. Walberg, Dr. W. H. Wickett and others at the chamber of commerce.

On Tuesday the Anaheim committee under the guidance of Dr. Herbert Johnston, county president, is to have its meeting to make plans for the securing of its quota of 200 members, vying with Fullerton, which has a similar quota.

Mrs. Fern Burford, Laguna Beach chairman, has a meeting scheduled for Wednesday night at the Laguna Beach hotel.

Mrs. C. H. Seamons of Yorba Linda is planning for a similar meeting in the northeast section of the county this week.

Dr. George A. Warner, chairman, with members of the Santa Ana committee met at the pastor's study today and determined on matters that have to do with the interests of the Santa Ana quota.

Coe Glade, leading contralto of the Chicago opera, will open the civic music series in Santa Ana December 8, it is announced.

The anticipated results of these sectional campaigns indicate a probable fourth concert to be given in the series and that each of the major towns in Orange county, Anaheim, Fullerton, Orange, and Santa, will have one of the concerts.

USE OF SOUTHLAND MATERIALS ASKED

Secretary George A. Raymer of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce today announced that his organization has joined with 12 other cities, affiliated with the Metropolitan Water district, in recommending that all material required in the construction of the aqueduct be, as far as possible, Southern California products.

According to Raymer, the job will require large quantities of cement, steel, and other materials and it is desired to limit purchases as far as possible to Southern California products. Such a policy, it was explained, will tend to return a considerable portion of money expended on the project to tax payers in the district.

There are 3825 miles of waterways and canals construction in the British Isles at a total cost of about $500,000,000.

Iron was once so valuable that the ancient Greeks once gave a lump of it as one of the prizes in their great athletic games.

THIS DEMOCRATIC ROOSEVELT

Being the Life Story of President-Elect Frank Delano Roosevelt

By Leland M. Ross and Allan W. Grobin

(This intimate story of the life of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, beginning with the time his father took him as a 5-year-old to care for his crippled brother, Cioe, and the President of the United States, carries the reader through an interesting book on the family farm at Hyde Park, N. Y., his education at the Groton, Harvard and Columbia Law School, and the development of his political career, which began with a New York State Senateanship. The biography is entirely authentic. The previous instalment told how F. D. while a New York state senator, led an insurgent group which successfully ousted Tammany Big Money when Murphy endorsed William Shean elected to succeed Chauncey M. Depew as U. S. Senator. Sheehan's name had figured prominently with that of Thomas Fortune Ryan, tradition magnate, in a public investigation.)

INSTALMENT SIX.

Among those at Albany whom Franklin Roosevelt trusted was a newspaper man, Louis Howe, veteran correspondent for the old New York Herald. So impressed was Howe by the courage and character Roosevelt had displayed in the Sheehan fight that he voluntarily became his political advisor. He had notions of his own about politics and recognized in F. D. a type of man too seldom found in public life. The two became close friends.

During his term Roosevelt served as Chairman of the Forest, Fish and Game Committee of the Senate and as a member of the Railways, Canals and Agricultural committees. He was as active in the work of the state as he had been in his own campaign.

But his relationship to T. R. and his known admiration for the colonel caused him often to be misunderstood. When he strove for harmony and agreement in the senate on committees in order that business might be accomplished more quickly, he was accused of trying to arbitrate between Democrats and Republicans. Which was he, anyway—donkey or elephant?

"I'm a Democrat, first, last and always," said Roosevelt, sharply. And on the heels of that statement, Tammany announced that Dr. J. J. O'Connell of Brooklyn was to make Health Officer for the Port of New York.

Senator Franklin D. protested. His objections were overruled.

Despite the opinions of his Democratic fellows, however, he did not believe O'Connell was the man for the place, and he actually took over the leadership of the Republican opposition and strove to prevent O'Connell's appointment. His effort failed; and he was marked still more deeply as a radical and as a shaky Democrat, a party man who could with too much ease leave the ranks. But even so, he felt he had been fully justified.

Nevertheless, he decided he would run for re-election in 1912. His business interests called for attention. Law practice lured him. State politics did not seem to be a profession where one's individuality was at great premium or where independence of thought was wanted. Moreover, he was vitally interested in national politics and was actively engaged in the fight for Woodrow Wilson.

He served notice on the leaders that he was not interested in re-election.

At that point Murphy made a mistake.

"Fine," said the Wigwam, "and if he does run, it won't break our hearts at all if he's defeated. In fact, we'll help defeat him by remaining as silent as the well-known Sphinx."

Roosevelt's friends brought him the news. Here was the "punishment" Murphy had promised for those who defied him through three months and sixty-four ballots in 1911. Better no Democrat at all, opined the Wigwam, than a boisterous political monkey who threw political monkey wrenches with such disconcerting effectiveness.

"Why don't you show them a thing or two?" urged his supporters, craftily. "Why not give them another lesson? They're going to say you were afraid to run again and that you're backing down now because you know they've got you nailed to the cross!"

"You think so?"

"They're already saying it."

Roosevelt decided to go back to his constituents on his record.

JOINT SERVICE TO BE HELD ON THANKSGIVING

The churches of Santa Ana will unite, according to custom, for a

Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, in the First Christian church, Sixth and Broadway.

The sermon will be given by Dr. George A. Warner, pastor of the First M. E. church, whose theme will be "Thanksgiving."

The Rev. E. W. Matz, president of the Ministerial association, will preside over the service, and will be assisted by the Rev. Harry E. Owings, of the First Baptist church, who is to read the president's proclamation, the Rev. O. Scott McFarland of the First Presbyterian church reading the scripture lesson, and the Rev. Perry F. Schrock of the First Congregational church offering the prayer.

The choir of the Christian church, directed by Frank Pierce, with Mrs. R. S. Briggs at the organ, will present the musical part of the program. There will be a solo by Pierce and an anthem by the choir.

The service is scheduled to begin promptly at 10 o'clock, and to close with equal promptness at 11.

It is for all people who desire to join in their giving of thanks, according to President E. W. Matz, and everyone is invited to come to the church for this hour of worship and praise.

THANKSGIVING DINNER THIS YEAR WON'T BE SO COSTLY; HERE ARE SOME SUGGESTIONS

"Are you familiar with our Royal Gorge?" asked the westerner, fearful lest some of his country's scenic beauties be missed by the British traveler.

"Bah Jove yes, old fruit!" responded the latter. "I got here just the day before your quaint Thanksgiving celebration, doncher know?"

Of course it's an old story, but dislike a dash of onion in the dressing, at least you will like that New England favorite of creamed onions as one of the dinner vegetables. And you will be able to purchase 26 pounds of delicate Spanish onions for one thin dime, 10 cents—the tenth part of a dollar!

Shall we have fluffy mashed potatoes and perhaps baked Hubbard squash? Potatoes at 18 pounds for a quarter and squash at three-quarters of a cent a pound? Or perhaps we will make the vegetables peas (three pounds for a dime) and candied sweet potatoes, a penny a pound. In fact one market advertises 10 pounds of yams and four pounds of rhubarb for the extravagant price of 10 cents.

CHURCH CLUBS FRATERNAL

Out of Town Guests Share Pleasures Of "The Swan"

The two large houses drawn to the Friday and Saturday evening performances of "The Swan," most recent Santa Ana Community Players production, were not composed entirely of local theatergoers, a number of the patrons coming from distances to attend the play in groups and with Santa Ana friends.

Saturday night's presentation attracted a number of out of town guests, many of whom remained over the week end with their Santa Ana hosts. Among these latter were Alice Bohnen of San Diego, well known artist, a guest of Earl Fraser, pianist of this city. Mr. Bohnen spent the remainder of the week end in the Frasier home at 615 East Second street, attending "The Swan" with Mr. Fraser Saturday night.

Others prolonging their visit were Miss Eva McCarthy of La Mesa, English teacher and instructor in dramatics at Grossmont Union High school, and Carl Quicksell of La Mesa, principal of that institution who were guests of the Robert Horns of 2421 French street. Mr. Quicksell and Miss McCarthy remained overnight in the Horn residence returning yesterday morning to San Diego County. Miss Clara Kate Owens and Miss Mary Jane Owens, 214 Owens drive, entertained at their play and over the week end two fellow members of the Alpha Phi sorority at the University of Washington, the Misses Betty and Margaret Weeks of Santa Barbara. Both Mrs. Horn and Miss Clara Kate Owens had prominent roles in the Players' production, the latter playing the feminine lead.

Others attending "The Swan" Saturday with Santa Ana hostesses were Mrs. Paul Haugh and Mrs. Malie Horner of Los Angeles and Mrs. Haugh's daughter, Mrs. Harold Stahler of Balboa Beach, all guests of Miss Lena Thomas of 1428 North Broadway; and Miss Frances Evans of Los Angeles, guest of Mrs. Marshall Northcross Jr. of 209 1/2 West Tenth street. Wayne Moore of Laguna Beach was another Saturday evening patron, while on Friday night Bert Eaton of the San Bernardino dramatics group, The Modern Mummers, who took honors at the last tournament of one act plays here for the best men's performance, and two friends from San Bernardino, were among the audience.

Meetings of Cultural Sorority Opened Auspiciously

Beta Sigma Phi sorority, national organization having as its purpose the promotion of cultural education among young women, and recently established in this city, held its first local meeting Thursday evening in the home of Miss Beulah May, 1002 Mabury street, who accepted the sorority's invitation to act as its sponsor.

Selections from the work of modern poets were read by Miss May during an evening which members found especially enjoyable by reason of their sponsor's informal discussion of her library and of various art pieces created by her.

A study of humorists prominent in contemporary letters will engage the sorority at its next meeting. It was decided, Reading assignments were made by Mrs. Newell Moore, educational director.

Present at Thursday's meeting in addition to sponsor and educational director, were the Misses Delphine Lopez, Elsie Siemers, Hazel Lee, Hazel Pennington, Ione Hanson, Iva Van Deuse, Jean Wolcott, Juanita Fowler, Katherine Spicer, Laura Mallon, Lillie Frosberg, Lynette Robb, Madalyn Phillips, Marie Labrucherio, Dorothy Lindsey, Mildred Staples, Ruth Stevenson, Sally Mueller, Lillian McDonald, Lucile Meyer, Mary Ford, Mary Louise Wallace and two guests, Mrs. Hollenbeck and Mrs. Jackson, representing national headquarters of the order.

Miscellaneous Shower Comes as Surprise To Hostess

Announcements

Inspired by the revival of metal craft which has taken Southern California by storm, members of the Arts and Crafts section of Junior Ebell have taken up the study of hand wrought pewter.

Beautifully pounded pewter bowls and plates may be seen taking form by those chancing by the Santa Ana high school wood shop Thursday afternoon, when the group will hold its next meeting at 3:30 o'clock. Members of this group are solving for themselves the two-fold problem of what to do with leisure time and what to give for Christmas. As work on the pewter is completed, this group expects to take up the study of other craft work, also under the supervision of Miss Laura Anderson.

Sedgwick Women's Relief corps will meet Wednesday at 1 o'clock at the Pythian hall. Annual inspection will take place at 12 o'clock and will be conducted by Mrs. Eva Johnson of Ingleside, department president. D. U. V. Miss Esther Vogt at the piano.

At midnight all were invited to the dining room where refreshments were served at a table whose length were strewn autumn leaves and oddly shaped gourds. Tall orange tapers, nut cups, place-cards, napkins, and all other decorative details were suggestive of a Thanksgiving theme. Mrs. Ulrich assisted the hostesses in serving.

The party concluded yesterday morning, when a delicious waffle breakfast was served.

Those present were the Misses Edna Hearn, Pauline Prescott, June Arnold, Louisa Hampton, Florence Warner, Esther Vogt, Luetta Vale, Beth Mateer, Ramona Smith and the hostesses, the Misses Ulrich and Belcher.

Like Aunt Jemima of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," I have a grand "charin' up" about once a year. Only, instead of a kitchen turn-out, mine has to do with correspondence which has been tucked away for further use. In going through this mass of letters I am going to devote this week's column to their publication. We'll start with —

GRAHAM CRACKER PIE
40 graham crackers
1 1/2 cup butter
2 large cups apple sauce
Whipped cream for garnish

R. E. L.
Roll cracker crumbs fine and mix to a paste with melted butter. Pat part of this mixture onto sides and bottom of a pie plate. Have the apple sauce very thick, cold and sweet as wished. Carefully put it in pie and use the remainder of crumb mixture to make a top for the pie. Bake until well browned and serve with whipped cream, or a la mode.

In putting on the crumb top strew the crumbs, then use a warm knife to smooth and press them down. This sounds like a swelle-gant dessert to me, and rather easy to make.

TODAY'S RECIPE
A shoulder of lamb
1 1/2 cup butter or substitute fat
1 cup mixed vegetables, diced (onions, carrot and turnip)
1 small bay leaf
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
3 cups water
12 peppercorns

Dressing for fill shoulder pocket
Shoulder of lamb, or young mutton, can be bought very inexpensively now, and pot-roasted, it makes a dinner fit for a baker's dozen of kings. If you feel that you can't bone it yourself ask the butcher to do it, but catch him when it is not rush hours, or just inadvertently he might slice an ear off (you) along with the lamb.

Make a good sage-and-onion dressing for the pocket; this calls for a few slices of bacon diced and fried crisp, an onion, minced and as much stale bread as needed. Soak it in cold water for one minute, then squeeze dry and rub fine in the hands.

Mix with the bacon, etc., and season to taste with sage, salt and pepper. Fill the pocket, then take a crushed clove of garlic and rub it all over the shoulder before dusting the meat with flour.

If you have one of those convenient deep iron kettles it is just the thing for the lamb, if not, get out the iron skillet, heat the fat mentioned in the recipe and quickly brown the shoulder.

Transfer to the cooking vessel, add the three cups of water, the peppercorns, bay leaf and diced vegetables, not forgetting the parsley. Let boil briskly, then reduce the heat to barely simmer, cover and cook for at least three hours. Uncover the last hour, setting the pot in the oven if the meat is liked a bit brown.

Add more water for gravy and thicken with flour, season with a dash of steak sauce, fish out the bay leaf and peppercorns, or strain the whole lot of gravy before serving.

A generous serving of lamb, dressing and gravy will run to 500 calories, half of which will be energy-makers, the other half tissue-builders.

MANNERS ARE DISCUSSED AT RESERVE MEET

ORANGE, Nov. 21.—Fall garden plantings was the interesting theme of the meeting of the Garden Section of the Orange Woman's club, Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Fred Alden, 271 North Pine street. Mrs. R. W. Miller led the discussion and told of bulbs which should be planted now. These include hyacinths, narcissus, tulips and daffodils.

During the talk it was brought out that it was not too late to plant sweet peas, stock and snapdragon. Roll call was unanswered by a list of names by each member on "My Garden in Bulbs." Mrs. Fred Alden gave a comprehensive report of the tea given at the Orange Woman's clubhouse when garden sections of the county were guests recently.

Mrs. Henry Meier told of a new system of irrigating which she said may be extended from garden use as it is used at present to use in orchards. The system is an underground one, water being run through porous pipes underground.

Mrs. A. H. Halleck presided. Two new members Mrs. Will Rohr and Mrs. W. C. Ahlman were welcomed as new members.

NEW RATIONS for UNCLE SAM'S ARMY

By VOLTA TORREY

MAJOR REUBEN NOEL PERLEY, a Bostonian and a soldier, doesn't eat beans because he knows his onions.

He knows so much about vegetables and other foods that he has recommended a new set of rations for Uncle Sam's army. And to prove his theories are sound, he recently tried them on himself.

In two months he gained 30 pounds on the diet he recommends for scrawny folks. Then, finding he could not get into his uniforms, he changed it to that for the overweights and lost 10 pounds in two months, which brought his weight to 165, the average for his 5 feet 10 1/2 inches of height.

If the dinner budget isn't balanced, the scales don't balance rightly. And Major Perley, assistant inspector general of the Seventh United States Army Corps area, is trying now to get the army's dinner budget properly balanced.

His proposals have been approved by Major General Johnson Hagood, seventh corps commander, and submitted to the War Department.

BY means of tables showing the various nutrients and the foods containing them, Major Perley worked out the balanced army ration. Then after making this study of food for soldiers, and in the light of his findings, he went on and worked out a system for balanced dinners for housewives. This system of household menus will be set forth in a book to be published soon.

Ever since he entered the army 25 years ago after being graduated from the Naval Academy, Major Perley has been studying nutrition. (He quit the navy because ships don't have apartments with kitchenets.) In Chicago he supplemented his studies by cooking for a month for a mess of 70 men.

To work out his balanced army ration, the major analyzed the official or theoretical ration for nutrient content and cost by comparing it with the food actually purchased for and consumed by the 60 men of Company B, 17th Infantry, at Fort Crook, Nebraska, during the year 1931.

The official ration, consisting of 31 stipulated food items, is not issued in terms of so many ounces of beef or pork or other foodstuffs, the major explains. It is used merely as a dietary guide in feeding soldiers, to indicate the distribution of the different kinds of food in the ration, and to determine the money allowance for the various items.

This official ration is not followed closely except as to money allowance in the better administered army units, such as the one which formed the basis of the major's actual study of foods. In fact, substitute foods are the rule where army feeding is handled most efficiently.

THE great shortcoming of the official ration is that it places too much emphasis on meat and not enough on eggs, milk and butter.

Major Perley found the ration not bulky enough, too high in calories, too high in protein content, that is, containing too much meat; and too low in calcium and phosphorus, that is, lacking in milk. It is lacking, too, in the vitamins found in fruit and vegetables. It is too acid and not alkaline enough, which means too much bread and meat and not enough milk, fruits and vegetables.

"My analysis of the ration showed it could be improved materially as a dietary formula and as an indication of the costs of foodstuffs actually purchased," explains the major. "I arranged the items according to their relative cost so as to show where the bulk of the money is spent."

"I found that milk is the item on which most money is spent. Nine per cent of the whole cost is for milk. Butter is second in cost and eggs third. Some of the other more costly items are potatoes, bread, coffee."

"I next took that list of foodstuffs and rearranged them into groups so that all the foods in a group were of similar nutrient character."

IN developing his proposed ration, Major Perley selected from each nutrient group one or more items to represent each group. In general the items he selected were at the top of the group, that is, the ones for which the most money had been spent.

"The items selected were thus an accurate index to the cost of all the items of the group," he points out. "For the expensive classes of food I selected several items from each group,

He insured the prompt return of the young men to their quarters by serving them ice cream at bed time.

like meats, vegetables and fruits. Thus my ration would vary with the cost of all foodstuffs."

The value of the official garrison ration is dominated by two items of food, a daily allowance of 18 ounces of beef and six ounces of bacon—not one-fourth of which is consumed by the soldier. Therefore, when beef and bacon are high-priced the money allowance is ample or even excessive. When they are relatively cheap, as now, the money allowance will not purchase the needed foods.

"For example," says Perley, "in my proposed ration, in place of the large amounts of beef and bacon I put in smaller amounts of beef, ham, fresh pork, corned beef, lamb, poultry, eggs and fish."

"My ration agrees very closely with the average soldier's diet. It has a pint of milk, two eggs (a pint of milk and two eggs are more than the army can buy a soldier under the present system of buying), and fresh fruits—that is, bananas, oranges and grapefruit. The daily quantity of fresh fruit is equivalent to one orange or one-half of a grapefruit."

MY proposed ration increases the number of vegetables. The official ration has potatoes, onions, canned tomatoes. I suggest the addition of lettuce and canned peas because they are excellent foods and are bought in large quantities by the army."

The major claims his ration adds to the variety of the soldier's fare though it has no more items in it. It not only has more meats and Trying out his theories in his own kitchen. . . . Major Perley stirs up a cake, or something, while Mrs. Perley inspects the job.

Among dried vegetables, the major banishes the bean. The daily official ration is one and one-half ounces, not a tenth of which is consumed by the soldier.

But it will be hard to get beans off the soldier's menu. They are included not so much for food value as for convenience in passing inspection. They are served on Saturday noons because they can be cooked without messing up the kitchen for the Saturday morning kitchen inspection.

The major's ration permits direct buying of what soldiers actually want and eat, whereas the official ration calls for substitutes throughout the list of 31 items with the few exceptions of purchases of beef, sugar, butter, lard, evaporated milk and coffee.

Among dried vegetables, the major banishes the bean. . . . But it will be hard to get beans off the soldier's menu.

Major Reuben Perley, who has recommended a new menu to the war department, would banish beans from the soldiers' fare and add greater variety without increasing the cost vegetables but more forms of cereals. For instance, it adds powdered milk and a small allowance of ice cream, enough ice cream so the men can have it once or twice a week.

When Major Perley had charge of a training camp some years ago he insured the prompt return of the young men to their quarters by serving them ice cream in a pint of milk at bedtime. This nightcap had more drawing power than rules and regulations.

The new ration would add fresh milk and eggs, sum up the major. For the dried fruits and vegetables he would substitute fresh ones.

He leaves the flour in greatly reduced quantity, eliminates the macaroni—which the soldiers seldom eat—and substitutes milkbread and oatmeal, both of which they eat. He lets coffee represent all beverages and dispenses with tea and cocoa, not because they aren't good but because including them causes unnecessary computation.

LEAVING evaporated milk, butter and sugar in the ration, he takes out a lot of petty items that have no bearing on the cost, such as flavoring extract, vinegar, pickles, salt, pepper, syrup, baking powder, jam, cinnamon, and rice. Rice, classed as a vegetable in the official ration, is really a cereal.

MAJOR PERLEY stresses that his views on a proposed army ration are purely his own, formulated after long study and in consultation with civilian dietitians of national standing, and approved by his corps commander. His proposal is awaiting the action of the War Department which has indicated its sympathy with efforts to improve the army menu and its purpose to make such improvements.

The major was somewhat doubtful at first about applying what he had learned about nutrition from army menus to the dietary problems of the American home. He was afraid people would think soldiers ate fed differently from civilians. They are not, he says, and the lack of balance in the soldiers' diet is found also in the diet of civilians.

To get the major's idea of well-rounded square meals, let's take a look at the customary menu at his own home, and see what he and Mrs. Perley and their two high school sons thrive upon:

For breakfast, they have one fresh fruit in season; always a cereal, cooked in winter, dry in summer; toast and coffee, with milk for the boys in place of coffee; almost invariably eggs, cooked in many ways, sometimes eaten with bacon, and now and then with a light protein like sausage.

Mrs. Perley eats lunch at home, the boys at school, and the major in the city. His customary selections include toasted whole-wheat sandwich with lettuce and tomato, potato salad and a little salmon, and either milk or coffee.

The dinner menu calls for an appetizer such as fruit cocktail or tomato juice; or thin soup, cold jellied in season; a meat dish—beefsteak, roast, chicken, etc.; three vegetables, one starchy, one watery, and one protective; a light salad with light dressing; gravy and sauces; bread and butter; a beverage other than coffee—usually lemonade, tea or grape juice; ice cream or light yellow custard.

THE major always smokes a cigar after dinner, being an inveterate smoker, but he says that has nothing to do with nutrition one way or the other.

Now what does he advise if you are one of those lean and hungry looking fellows?

First, you should increase moderately the consumption of fats. Use butter plentifully on bread and vegetables. Eat more gravies, pies and oils. Increase the oils in salad dressings, for instance, in lieu of vinegar. Eat more bread, cakes and rich puddings, too.

Second, you should cut down a corresponding amount on foods that are not fattening, such as milk (especially buttermilk) and water vegetables like onions. Don't do this hastily, but over a period of six months or more.

If you are too fat, and wish to reduce, the major's suggestions are:

Skimp on butter, gravies, lard, sugar, pies, cakes and rich puddings. Eat more fruit, more watery and protective vegetables. Eat more lettuce, carrots, string beans, spinach, onions.

Cut down on bread. Eliminate all alcoholic beverages, but drink all you like of the other kinds. Make these changes gradually.

MORE ARRESTS MADE IN BOOZE CLEANUP HERE

Cost of War to Be Subject For Relations Group

The Cost of War and the Price of Peace is the subject of an address to be given tonight at the First M. E. church chapel by E. Guy Talbott of San Francisco, regional secretary of the National Council of Prevention of War. The address is given under the auspices of the Santa Ana Council of International Relations. The program will begin at 7:30 p.m., it was announced.

Two more arrests on liquor charges were made yesterday by the Santa Ana police, following the investigation made here during the past several weeks by federal officers, working in cooperation with the Santa Ana police.

Ida M. Burns, 27, of 1506 West Seventh street, was arrested last night, after her home was raided Saturday night and 15 gallons of assorted liquors were said to have been found.

She was not at home at the time and later told police that when she returned home, she found the liquor was missing, thought she had been hijacked. She remained away from home Saturday night, however, but when the police did not appear, was certain that someone else had taken her liquor and so she went back home. Police then arrested her. She was booked at the county jail on a charge of possession of liquor.

Wanted in the round-up on a sale of liquor charge, Kenneth William Johnson, 29, of Costa Mesa, Route No. 1, was arrested last night and lodged in the county jail. He is said to have sold a small amount of liquor to federal agents.

Accused of using a knife to rob Adriana Selanova of $239 Pacifico Del Rio, Filipino, caused a mild sensation in department two, superior court during his trial and shouted "He is a liar" during the testimony of Deputy Sheriff G. F. McKelvey.

THANKSGIVING DINNER WON'T BE SO COSTLY

those are obtainable at nine pounds for a quart.

We forgot our cocktail, didn't we? Which will you have, a crab cocktail made from a 7-ounce can of crabmeat at 12 cents, or a sparkling California fruit cocktail, grapefruit (25 cents a dozen), oranges that grow in almost every back yard, and a few Malaga grapes at 10 pounds for a dime?

For the soup course, if there is to be one, let's use a canned tomato soup since we can purchase four cans for a quarter. And here we are back to the turkey again.

Let's use some oysters in the dressing. The canned ones are awfully nice, and you can get three cans for a quarter!

What kind of a salad? A molded one is nice, and on the specials in jello—three packages for 20 cents is one. So we'll use that as a base and then if we can't wangle some avocados from an obliging grower we'll buy some since they're quite reasonable, and perhaps some of those lovely canned pears (you know you can get small halves in small cans at three for a quarter) we have a toothsome salad to serve with one of the best standard ready made dressings at 9 cents a jar. Or maybe you would prefer the simplicity of sliced tomatoes (five pounds for a nickel) on crisp lettuce (three solid heads for a dime).

The Final Touch

What for dessert? Plum pudding is sacred to Christmas, but pumpkin pie is Thanksgiving's own dessert, principally perhaps, because our colonial ancestors grew pumpkins in between their hills of maize, and had great golden beauties from which to make their pies. Today we let the canneries prepare the pumpkin itself, buy it at 10 cents a can, combine it with eggs at 26 cents a dozen (large size); sugar at 10 pounds for 29 cents, and milk, fill our flaky pie shells and have the finest dessert that man can wish.

The Saints threatened again in the last quarter after Quarterback Conrad intercepted a pass on his 43-yard line. A pass to Hendrie left the ball on Fuller's 26. Stranske made 11, then 1. Hamilton picked up 4 and a lateral, with Stranske on the receiving end, added 7 and made it first down on the 13-yard line. Stranske made 6 at center. Hamilton got 2 on a spinner. Montgomery contributed 1 at right guard but Hamilton lost a yard on a wide end run so Fuller recovered the ball on down on its 5-yard line.

Santa Ana lugged the ball right back into Fuller territory but the game ended after Stranske had made a first down on the 10-yard mark.

Impotent offensively, aggregating only 27 yards gain, Fuller must be given credit for a fine defensive exhibition. Santa Ana's superior reserve strength gradually wore down Fullerton resistance but while Cruickshank's men were fresh they made a real ball game out of it. Pepper, Newton and Hobbs were especially strong linemen on a well-coached defense club.

Hamilton Best Gainer

Hamilton, making 63 yards in 14 attempts, was Santa Ana's chief ground-gainer. He had the help of powerful blocking from Captain Kidder and Montgomery, the latter being used sparingly as a ball-carrier. Sam Tucker engineered both of Santa Ana's touchdown drives at quarter. Noe, Boyle, Deveney, Miller and Underwood were outstanding in a Saint line that completely bottled up Fuller's running attack, built around Raitt who totaled only 24 yards for the day.

ORANGE COUNTY'S WATER INTERESTS BEING GUARDED

A few days ago we carried the main portions of a letter which was written by the Tri-Counties Water Conservation Association to the Board of Supervisors of Orange county. The contents of the letter, together with the conference which has been held, to which it referred, amounted to an argument to persuade Orange county's Board of Supervisors to approve of the spreading of water in San Bernardino county so that the money appropriated by the state might be used.

This approval is necessary, because the conditions were that all three counties—San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange, should join in the project. Up to this time, the Board of Supervisors of Orange county has steadfastly refused to give this approval, without which the money from the state is unavailable. There have been protests raised to this spreading by several interests, one of them being by the city of Santa Ana. One of these interests indeed has filed a law suit upon the matter to establish and maintain its rights as against the loss of water, due to the spreading in the Upper Santa Ana.

The suggestions in the letter by the Tri-Counties Water Conservation Association as the basis for the plan for approval of Orange county, are certainly interesting. Their first proposition is that we will agree that the rights of the Association to divert additional flood water from the Santa Ana river for conservation purposes shall not be increased after the date of signing of this agreement with the Board of Supervisors of Orange county, but that it shall remain as of that date. The truth is that the county has not of itself an interest in that water, but it is the citizens of the county, and those who have riparian rights in the stream.

To agree that they can do what they are now doing, would permit them to do what the citizens desire they shall cease from doing.

The approval by Orange county would not necessarily legally affect the rights of the citizens, but the approval would give the power to this association to use the money for spreading purposes against the interests of the citizens who have these rights. And this is the thing that the association wants. The citizens of Orange county, as a matter of fact, are maintaining that the Association is now using water that it has no right to use, so that the moral effect of an endorsement by the county of what they are doing, would be harmful to Orange county's citizens.

The letter went on to suggest that it should be remembered that the appropriation of flood water by the Association was for the benefit of irrigated lands in the three counties, and not solely for the use of parties in the upper two counties. But the truth is that it has been found pretty clearly that there is a great loss of this water for spreading purposes in Orange county, by spreading up above, and that Orange county is losing thereby, and not gaining.

The letter goes on further to suggest that Orange county shall agree that in the event that an agreement cannot be arrived at, between the respective parties, as to the proportion to which each county should be entitled, that it shall be left to the State Division of Water Resources. As we have said, we doubt seriously if there can be rights taken away from the citizens legally by such an agreement of the counties, but in any case it would complicate matters.

If this plan is not acceptable, the letter proposes a second plan—that the State Division of Water Resources be requested by the Board of Supervisors and the Association, and other interested parties, to examine the facts in the case, and to determine on a working basis. In other words, this suggestion is that these parties shall turn the question of the rights of the citizens over to a group to determine, outside of the courts. We would not say for a moment that the idea was to avoid a just and fair settlement. It is not that—the object is to get the Orange county board to approve, so that they can use this money for spreading purposes, which they cannot do now.

In case of Orange county's refusal to accept either proposition, they ask them what will be satisfactory, to the end that they shall approve of the use of this money. Probably the one who is as well informed upon this matter, if not the best informed man upon it, who is interested from Orange county's point of view, is G. A. Elliott, Orange county's engineer. And Mr. Elliott, we believe, has advised that under no circumstances should this be approved. But he declares that he could not advise the supervisors to give their consent to the extension of the project.

There is considerable argument made in respect to these waters, to the effect that it is saving the flood waters from going into the ocean. But unfortunately this argument does not hold very strongly in the case, for the reason that during flood periods is just the time when conservation is not made, and when spreading is not done. During the flood times, the water is more or less loaded with silt, it is exceedingly muddy, and these are the times when the water cannot be spread, because it so quickly closes up the laterals.

We do not blame the representatives of the groups in San Bernardino and Riverside counties for trying to get this approval by the Orange county Board of Supervisors, but we are relieved to know that the Board of Supervisors have set themselves like a flint against this approval, and that our engineer, Mr. Elliott, has been so clear upon the matter. Our interests are being looked after.

A HOPEFUL SIGN

A Washington report states that a conference has been called of Republican leaders to gather up the shattered remnants of the party, to see what can be done to rehabilitate it after the wreck of November 8,—or the massacre, as one has called it. The report goes on to say that at this reorganization conference, which is to gather during the Christmas holidays, it is expected that such conservatives and standpatters as Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, Roebuck, the Connecticut leader, Hilles of New York, and Snell, the party leader in the House, are to sit at the same table with Senators Norris, Johnson, LaFollette, and Cutting, all of whom enlisted under the Roosevelt banner during the campaign.

This is a good move. Yet we cannot see how an agreement between such diametrically differing forces can be reached. Which group will make the surrender? Surely not the Progressives. Can it be true with reference to the others that the old adage that the Bourbons never can forget anything or learn anything is at last untrue? We should like to hope so. Compromise between them is unthinkable. It was the reactionaries who were repudiated on November 8. Any return to the ideals which were repudiated, as Nicholas Murray Butler said a few days ago in New York, means the death of the Republican party. Not since the Whigs went out of the political picture has any party been so disastrously put out of the running.

That campaign saying about "grass growing in the streets" might have been worse. It could be growing in the cornfields, you know.

JUBILEE YEARS

The dispatches carry the news today that a man down in Tuscaloosa, Alabama burned up $27,000 worth of mortgages and notes, and inserted an advertisement in the paper telling his debtors that he was doing it, and saying: "So boys, you need not dodge me any more. Come in and see me, and let's talk things over, and forget the past."

Surely that man is helping to bring better things around. He must have read in Holy Writ something about the year of jubilee. Every 50 years, as we recall, all debts should be forgiven and they should start over again. While probably with this man who has erased these debts, it has not been 50 years, yet with some of his debtors it probably seems that long. And then there is no prohibition on having a jubilee coming oftener than 50 years. We are living in the days of grace.

Punch Changes Its Editor

Christian Science Monitor

After twenty-six years' very successful tenure of office, Sir Owen Seaman is to retire from the editorship of Punch, perhaps the most famous journal of humor in the world. He will be succeeded by Mr. E. V. Knox, whose writings, over the signature "Evoe" have long delighted Punch's many readers.

This change in editorship is in England an event of almost national importance, for Punch is a peculiarly English institution. So English, indeed, that foreigners have often declared their inability to understand it! It has even been asserted that, like the British Constitution, the humor of Punch does not exist. But English people are equally convinced that the humor of Punch, again like the British Constitution, is the best thing of its kind in the world.

Under the guidance of Sir Owen Seaman, who is as brilliant a scholar as he is a parodist, the influence and prestige of Punch have probably been as high as at any earlier date in its ninety-one years' history. This is saying a good deal, for Punch has long been able to draw upon the work of the foremost English authors and cartoonists. So great has been the wealth of material at its disposal that it holds the unique position of having been the only journal in the world to reject a contribution from Charles Dickens at the height of his fame, when he was already the author of "Pickwick Papers," "Nicholas Nickleby" and "Oliver Twist."

Mr. Punch has never been merely a humorist. In his first issue he declared that his aims were higher than "the amusement of a thoughtless crowd, and the collection of pence." He has always had a kindly hand ready for the unfortunate and the shafts of his wit have not been barbed with malice. The passing years have made Thackeray's tribute to Mr. Punch no less applicable than it was in the middle of the nineteenth century. "There never was before published in this world so many volumes that contained so much cause for laughter and so little for blushing; so many jokes and so little harm." Mr. Knox is deservedly entering upon a high heritage.

Chile Settles Down

Oakland Tribune

After a period in which there was considerable excitement and some fears of a radical dictatorship Chile, in decisive manner, has returned to what appears to be the ways of stable government. When the people there voted the return of Arturo Alessandri to the post of executive and overwhelmingly defeated Marmaduke Grove, who started one revolution and threatened an upheaval, they made it plain in which camp popular opinion was to be found. South America accepts the results as bringing to an end the plan to change the country into a sort of western soviet. It welcomed the end of a summer of turmoil and predicts a winter of comparative content. There were five candidates in the recent election and Alessandri received sixty per cent of the total vote. Colonel Grove, the adventurous politician who actually held the office of president for a week, after he had seized it some months ago, was allowed to return from Easter Island where he had been exiled and his name was on the ballot. His vote was very small.

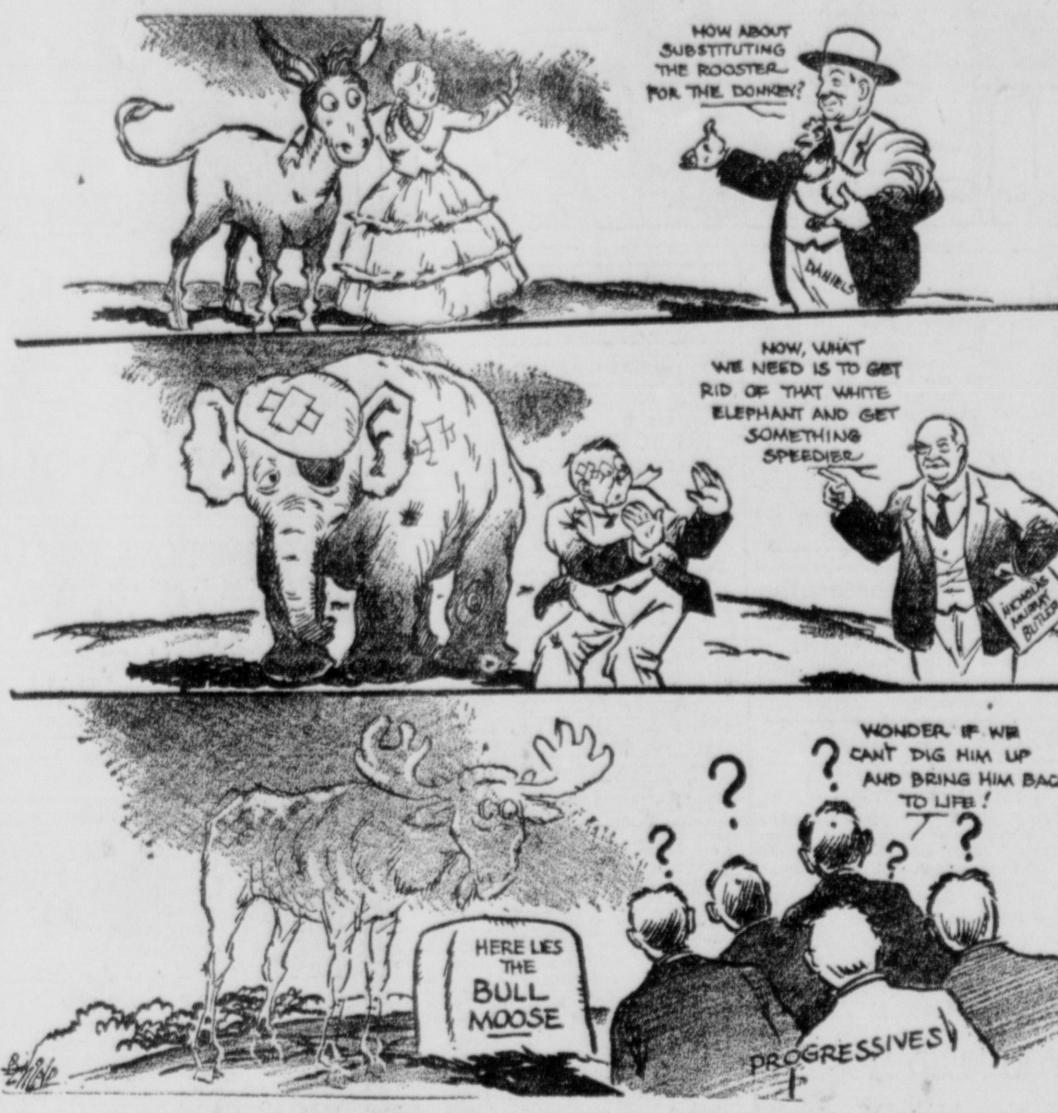

President Alessandri is the one who in 1920 won the office as a liberal. He was ousted several years later when the conservative Ibanez was chosen. He has stood for the greater democratization of the governmental system and for labor reforms, and is credited with having drafted the constitution of 1925 which was hailed as a great advance in self-government. After having changed governments so many times that it is no longer convinced that a change is always good for the country Chile promises to settle down to a period of peace and quiet.

We do not blame the representatives of the groups in San Bernardino and Riverside counties for trying to get this approval by the Orange county Board of Supervisors, but we are relieved to know that the Board of Supervisors have set themselves like a flint against this approval, and that our engineer, Mr. Elliott, has been so clear upon the matter. THE GOVERNMENT DOLLAR

States customs. 24 cents of it come from income taxes. 49 cents of it come from property taxes. 10 cents of it will come from all other sources. (2) Who spends the government dollar? 18 cents of it are spent by state governments. 25 cents of it are spent by the federal government. 87 cents of it are spent by local governments. (3) Where does the government dollar come from? 7 cents of it go to general government. 9 cents of it go to social welfare. 19 cents of it go to highways. 21 cents of it go to protection. 24 cents of it go to education. 20 cents of it go to all other enterprises on which government spends money. This simple summary is essential to sound thinking on economy. I shall be harking back to this during the weeks ahead, so I hope many readers will clip this tabulation and paste it where it can be seen later.

Our Children

A GOOD TEST

School tests tell how the child is getting along with the school tasks. When he gets a hundred in spelling and ninety in geography and sixty-five in arithmetic we know that as far as arithmetic goes so far a thorough review drill and application is in order. So far as geography goes we can extend congratulations and as for spelling, nothing more need be said save a word of astonished praise.

Has somebody been leaving you money? pop said, and ma said, Naturally not, I didn't say it was a miracle, but it certainly is remarkable, there was an advertisement in the paper the other day offering to read peoples character from their handwriting if you sent a dollar bill with a specimen of your writing, so I did it just as an experiment, and pop said, O I see, you've been leaving somebody else money.

What? Just listen while I read you some of this, ma said. Wish she started to, reading, Dear madam, From a study of your handwriting our experts report that your disposition is inclined to be variable, that is to say you are among the most easy going of wimmin as long as nobody is irritating you or getting on your nerves, but as soon as you feel you are being thwarted or opposed in any way you feel a decided resentment and make no secret of it. Just from a few lines of innocent handwriting, doesn't that border on the verge of the uncanny? ma said.

When that has been done there is not an end to the matter. These expressions of the child are all outside expressions. Somebody beside the child had a hand in them.

If he don't know how to bound the United States the teacher told him how and probably ept him in after school until she was sure he would know it. With Regents' staring her in the face she would be likely to do just that. And as for conduct the whole school and the whole family had something to say about that. If he lost a mark for whispering on line, or if he was reported for hitting a boy in recess time, he was checked up for that. Pressure from outside might be responsible for his conduct, whether good or bad.

There must be some guide to tell us the way he is going and I think that his happiness is the best one so far. Is the good child a happy child? Is the high average child a happy child? There is no need to ask about the low average child or the bad child. Both of them are unhappy or they would not get such a rating. Happiness is the sign manual of personal success.

I say personal success advisedly for it is possible to have success thrust upon one and then one is sick unto death in the soul of him. Real happiness is the spontaneous expression of a soul at peace within itself. That is a state that cannot be bestowed in affection nor imposed in authority. It comes of itself or it does not come at all. When it comes you know it. Its light is unmistakable.

It's witchcraft, pop said. It wouldn't surprise me if they've found out that you have an unreasoning aversion to chockitake that's been left out in the rain overnite and that you prefer dogs to catterpills, he said, and ma said, O I mite of known that you would scoff at anything a little mystical and out of the ordinary, now just for what I wont read you the rest.

Wich she didn't.

Amazing, pop said, and ma said, And it goes on still better, listen to this, You have a trusting nature on the whole, but there are limits to your faith in human nature. For instants if you once found a person slandering you behind your back or cheating at cards, you would be very much disinclined to ever fully trust that person again. You are not a vane woman and yet in choosing photographs of yourself you would be apt to pick out the ones that are rather flattering than otherwise.
